

Sequoits Out to Beat Lake Forest Friday; Win From Wauconda

Warren's Loss to Round L. Tightens Race For Championship

The Antioch High Sequoits have their work cut out for them when they play Lake Forest there tomorrow night.

Lake Forest defeated Antioch here earlier in the season 47 to 42. "They play a slow, deliberate game," commented Coach Larry Leon, "while we play a fast game."

"They forced us to play their style of game when they were here. We will try to force them to play our style this time," he added.

The Sequoits are out for more than revenge. Warren will play Grayslake this weekend, and if the Blue Devils lose to them as they did to the lowly Round Lake team last weekend, Antioch will have a chance to tie them for the championship when they come here the following week.

The results last week in the conference were: Round Lake 63, Warren 62 (almost unbelievable), Lake Forest 53, Grant 51; Elia-Vernon 67, Grayslake, 60; Antioch, 67, Wauconda, 66.

The Sequoits have great respect for Denny Freund of the Wauconda Bulldogs team, and are glad the visitors didn't have any more like him.

After building a 13-point lead with only three minutes to play, the Antioch defense weakened and before the final whistle blew Wauconda had scored 12 points and nearly won the game.

Wauconda started out strong and took the first quarter 16-14, but the Sequoits got busy and led at the half 32 to 24. The margin was still greater at the end of the third quarter, 49 to 35, but in the final quarter Wauconda made 31 points to Antioch's 17.

Art Hankes tallied 16 of his 22 points in the first half. He controlled both boards on the rebounding.

In the second half Dick Behrens and Pat Roach took over the scoring campaign, and between them scored 20 of the 25 points. Behrens got a total of 16 points and Roach 13 for the entire game.

For Wauconda, Denny Freund scored 42 points and his total of 347 for the season has already shattered (continued on page 10)

Village Board Room Being Redecorated; Get New Furniture

Trustees Advertise for Bids on New 3-Ton Truck for Street Department

Redecorating of the meeting room of the village trustees in the Village hall is under way.

Carl Davis, who did the remodeling of the front part of the building, has the contract and is having floor tile laid this week. Painting of the walls will follow.

New curtains no doubt will be obtained to harmonize with the brown mottled tile.

New furniture probably will be the next on the list of purchases for the hall. The chairs and table are in very poor condition.

The board held a special meeting at noon yesterday and voted to advertise for bids on a new 2 1/2 or 3-ton truck. The one now in use is too light for hauling of snow or other heavy material. The bids will be opened at the next regular meeting March 4.

Sports Show Opens Tomorrow at Chicago, Antioch Has Booth

The Sports Show will open tomorrow in the Chicago amphitheatre with Antioch business men and Chain of Lakes resort owners ready to prove to visitors that this region is the ideal place to come for sports the year round.

The Chamber of Commerce represented by Joseph Patrovsky and his corps of assistants will share to the extent of 12 feet a 48-foot booth with the Resort Owners Assn., and it probably will be opposite the State Conservation exhibit.

Last year the resort owners did a fine job of advertising the chain of lakes as the place to come for recreation and many Chicagoans for the first time were made aware of the fact that such a place exists within a short ride from home.

Patrovsky said he can use the help of a few more Antioch businessmen at the booth.

The show will last to one week from Sunday, and he urges Antioch people to attend and visit their booth.

Dr. Tossey, Antioch, Aids in Experiment to Learn Whether Immunized Milk Will Prevent Hay Fever

Dr. Carroll P. Tossey, veterinarian, of Winsor drive is assisting in conducting an experiment at the Hawthorn-Melody dairy farm south of Libertyville in which he and others seek to determine whether milk from inoculated cows may have the effect of warding off hay fever in people.

The effort has the backing of the Chicago Board of Health and in part is a duplication of work done by two University of Minnesota scientists Dr. Berry Campbell and Dr. William E. Petersen of the department of anatomy and dairy science.

Dr. Tossey does the work of injecting pollens held in liquid suspension into the udders of 10 selected cows. Milk from these cows

Get 1939 Car License Plate in 1958 Package

Bob Hopkins of Winthrop Harbor could hardly believe his eyes last evening when he opened his car license envelope at the Feyerabend Lincoln-Mercury sales room on South Main street, Antioch and found one 1958 plate and beneath it a plate of the 1939 vintage.

Hopkins ordered plates for his new Studebaker through the local firm which got them from Chicago. The mystery is how the 1939 plate—a new one never used—got into the envelope instead of the duplicate.

The exterior of the envelope listed the number 2,737,412 which was true of the 1958 purple and white plate. But there was no mention of the yellow and black 1939 plate, which incidentally while weighing more than the 1958 plate is nearly an inch shorter.

Hopkins thinks it will be up to the Chicago office to explain.

Cold Eases Up, New Wave Due; 10 Subzero Days

Feb. Setting New Record For Continuous Cold, West is Warm

Temperatures above zero and into the twenties yesterday almost were classified as a heat wave by Antioch residents.

They have been so used to sub-zero weather for so much of this month, what used to be cold weather now becomes warm by comparison.

For ten of the 20 days this month zero or below has been recorded, and the climax came Monday when during the early morning hours the mercury got down to 12 below zero. On Tuesday morning the temperature went to within one degree of that record.

While these are not the coldest days on record for February, they are the coldest for this year and the cold is the most prolonged on record for February.

While the weather was warmer yesterday and today, snow Friday and another cold blast from Canada are forecast for the weekend, so don't get out your garden seeds or put away your winter overcoat.

Cooperative weather observer Roy Kufalk recorded for the past week the highest and lowest temperatures as follows:

February 13—23 and 0°; Feb. 14 26 and 5°; Feb. 15—17 and 6°; Feb. 16—1 above and 12 below zero; Feb. 17—5 above and 11 below zero; Feb. 18—11 above and 4 below; Feb. 19—21 and 3°.

Chicago weather forecasters say that the accumulated variances from the normal temperatures so far this month is 260 degrees. Temperatures now should be around 36 for high and 21 for low.

W. V. Lahti, local fuel oil distributor, says that his heat unit recording instrument shows the need of 334 degrees more heat so far this month than for the same period last year, or an increase of 48 per cent.

The cold has extended into the South destroying crops, while in the west the weather is setting new heat records. Denver has been warmer than Miami, Fla., on two days.

Derailed Freight Cars on North Western at Highway 173

When trucks of one car came loose several cars of a freight on the Chicago and North Western railroad were derailed at the Rte. 173 crossing west of Zion Sunday morning. The highway was blocked for most of the day until a wrecking crew got the cars back on the track again. Most of the derailed cars were empty and comparatively small damage was done. Competition or Courtesy?

The competitive spirit enters into practically everything that Americans do. This quality of the individual perhaps more than any other single attribute is responsible for the country's greatness. It is to be expected then that the competitive spirit enters into the everyday business—or pleasure—of driving. Increasing congestion on the highways in recent years appears only to increase the degree of competitive driving.

Unfortunately, this quality becomes explosive when it is demonstrated behind the wheel. The urge to "out drive" the other fellow leads to acts of discourtesy which sooner or later trigger destruction.

According to the Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company, discourtesy or lack of consideration for the rights of others now ranks among the most serious driving faults. It often surpasses lack of driving skill, experience, or judgment as the underlying cause of an accident. These discourteous acts may show up on police and fatality records as "speeding," "passing on hills and curves," "running stop signs," "jumping lights," "hogging the road," and numerous similar violations of good driving practice. But hidden though it may be, the basic cause is there. Clues as to its presence are found in the tangled metal and bloody debris of auto wrecks from coast to coast.

This country now has more than 78 million registered motor vehicle drivers sharing the road with each other in what is often bumper to bumper traffic. Cars and drivers are increasing at an annual rate much faster than additional highway space to accommodate them. This means that drivers must learn to curb their competitive instincts in traffic and develop new concepts of patience and tolerance. Failing this, ways must be found to rule the aggressive, the competitive, the discourteous driver off the road.

The latter measure may prove difficult. Courtesy is a product of the spirit which in itself cannot be enforced by law. It must spring from within the individual himself. For him to understand his inborn competitive tendencies and how they affect his behavior in traffic is a progressive step toward achieving courtesy—and safety.

Sources of Monopoly Power

There is a good chance that Congress will pass laws, perhaps in the form of amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act, designed to safeguard union welfare funds; to control use of dues money for political purposes; to give the rank-and-file a more effective voice in union affairs, and to bring about certain other reforms.

Important and needed as such laws are, they don't go to the root of the matter. Union monopoly power stems from two sources. One is the unions' exemption from the anti-trust laws. The other is compulsory unionism—that is, the union shop, under which a man who doesn't join and pay dues can't work at his trade. The only cure here is the right-to-work law.

On the Block

Congressional "deals" have long been commonplace. In effect, legislators trade votes in order to get pet measures through. And sometimes this stratagem can have a far-reaching significance.

Butte, Montana, Standard carries a piece by

Fulton Lewis, Jr. which describes such a case. During the last Congress a deal was made whereby conservative Southern Senators agreed to support construction of a federal power dam at Hell's Canyon in return for concessions by certain Northern Senators on civil rights legislation. Mr. Lewis quotes Senator Mundt of South Dakota as saying: "You Southerners get very vocal and enthusiastic about states' rights, when you're applying them to your racial problems and the other matters in which you find state's rights are convenient. But in order to preserve them in these cases, you sell them out when it comes to public power."

Senator Mundt then got right down to cases. As Mr. Lewis puts it: "He then told them that if the government gets established in hydro-electric and atomic electric power production on a nationalized basis, 'it won't be 15 minutes before they take over you and your oil and gas, and that's the end of Texas' free enterprise!'"

In other words, if we agree to surrender other people's rights in order to advance our special interests, our own rights are likely to go on the block next.

Power of the Press

A leading association of retailers recently held a convention. And one of the highlights developed, according to an Editor & Publisher account, is that "Newspapers remain tops among retailers as the prime implement for moving goods."

That speaks well for the power, prestige and durability of the press, in this era when all manner of media are scrapping for a share in the advertising dollar. The printed word, in regularly-issued periodicals, has not lost its magic.

A Vested Interest

Sixteen billion, four hundred million dollars of the administration's $73.9 billion budget for fiscal 1959 is for "benefits" of various kinds. A mere $2.5 billion is budgeted for general government. If there is to be any significant economizing it will have to come out of this $16.4 billion of "benefits." The big rub is that once benefits are granted they apparently can never be cut back substantially. Big government is a one-way street because more and more people have an economic stake in keeping it big.

A classic example is the Tennessee Valley Authority, a wholly owned government corporation created in 1933 primarily to control floods and improve the navigability of the Tennessee River. The taxpayer's investment in TVA now stands at better than $2 billion. By 1962 the total investment is expected to reach $3.6 billion of which $3 billion, or 80 per cent will be in the commercial electric power business. Industries and businesses, homes and farms in the TVA region are now geared to tax-exempt, tax-subsidized TVA power. They have a direct stake in the perpetuation of this particular phase of big government which serves privileged customers at the expense of all taxpayers—what amounts to a vested interest. Proposals are now before Congress which would authorize TVA to finance itself without congressional appropriations or approval. If such proposals are adopted, TVA will come of age. It will be able to extend its tax-exempt activities at will, over-running and absorbing any taxpaying electric company in its path. Ultimately it may supply other services or commodities "at cost."

The Tennessee Valley Authority is a national problem. It reveals how little governments become big governments, which ultimately destroy private ownership of property and political liberty—and how this growth goes on almost unnoticed by the public at large.

The issue posed by TVA is not who shall furnish the country electricity, but what kind of government we wish to have. Representative government is not compatible with a centralized bureaucracy in which millions of people have a stake in the "benefits" which that bureaucracy doles out.

U. of I. Food Report

CHICAGO—Fish, with exception of tuna, and eggs that figure prominently in Lenten menu planning are generally speaking shorter supplied and slightly higher priced as compared with last year, but not to alarming proportions in terms of total food supplies and prices. Fresh produce also qualifies abundantly in this pattern.

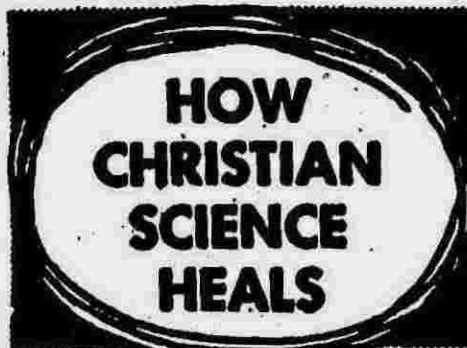

Other non-meat foods for the most part are well supplied, mostly steady price-wise and are receiving seasonal retail promotion attention. Meanwhile, the University of Illinois consumer service weekly survey of food supplies and prices shows: Red meats advancing slightly at wholesale, without reflecting in terms of retail advances. Fryers taking more of an increase than turkeys in poultry lines. Eggs advancing as predicted. Considerable demand for processed fruits and vegetables, in light of the fresh produce problems, without any increases in cost being apparent as yet. Value selectivity is relatively good this week. More money saving opportunities are found in turkey, beef rib roasts, chuck roasts and steaks; pork chops and bacon, and lamb roasts, all at last week's retail costs. In addition to turkey, also add fryers and ducks. Grocery values include tuna fish, peas, pears and peaches. Fresh produce values include principally cauliflower, lettuce, carrots and broccoli, and grapes, grapefruit and apples.

The beef market currently is dominated by eastern buyers shopping the heavier weights, leaving abundant lighter weight, less finished animals in Chicago to set up the beef values, and prevailing prices. Porkers are a little shorter supplied but not enough to change market tone levels of a week ago, rating chops and bacon on the value list.

Food processors who use eggs to an important degree are heavily into the "breaking market"—cracked and lower grades—which coupled with current supplies and increasing fresh market demand

Consumer response to suggestions that canned and frozen produce out-values fresh varieties was easily measured by increasing demand reported by outlets. No major price changes have resulted. The recommendation remains unchanged through a new round of adverse southern weather which by now can do little more damage to fruit and vegetable crops remaining.

FEED THE BIRDS, ANIMALS

An appeal is made to both townspeople and farmers to put out feed for pheasants and other birds and animals such as squirrels and rabbits. Some birds and animals have been found dead for lack of food.

The ground has been covered with hard crusted snow for several weeks and starvation and cold has taken its toll among the birds. A little grain will save the birds who are the farmer's best protection against insects.

Civic League Plans Forest Preserve Study: Eye Statutory Powers

V. Joseph Hultman, president of the Lake County Civic League, announced today that the directors of the League have authorized a fact-finding study of the statutory powers of the proposed Lake County Forest Preserve District. The question of whether a Forest Preserve District will be established for the county may face voters at the April 8 primary election.

The League's decision to make the study came after information on the proposed district was presented to the League at a recent meeting of the Board of Directors by

Mrs. Frank Untermyer, chairman of the Citizens Committee to Establish a Lake County Forest Preserve. "No stand has been taken at present on this taxing proposal," stated Hultman. "Since the League is a fact-finding organization, we will attempt to look at the pros and cons of the question in the interests of all the citizens of Lake County. We will make our report public, and available to all citizens if this question becomes a matter for voter approval."

Hultman said "Our preliminary investigation of this proposal indicates that the financing powers given by statute are broad. If approved, the District would be empowered to raise money by general taxation for a number of purposes enumerated in the Act on a maximum tax rate not to exceed .025% of assessed valuation. This rate, extended, could provide an annual amount of approximately $190,000, based on the last-known valuation of the county." Hultman also pointed out that the annual revenue available to the district could increase with growth in the valuations of the county.

"The district could borrow money, issuing bonds for the purchase of land without referendum, subject to the statutory limitations of acquiring up to 50,000 acres and the debt limitation of one-half of one percent of the assessed valuation," said Hultman. "The debt limitation for the district, based on the last-known valuation, would be approximately $3,816,000. Any issuance of bonds for land purchase without referendum would not cause a separate tax or an increase in taxing power since this is expressly implied by statute."

Hultman also pointed out that the district could issue bonds for purposes other than the purchase of land, and for the purchase of land after acquiring 50,000 acres, only by referendum. "The retirement of such bonds could provide a separate tax increasing the taxing power of the district," he stated.

TAX FACTS

Two hundred representatives from Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota statewide taxpayer associations, at a regional meeting in Racine, Wisconsin on Lincoln's birthday, called for immediate Federal tax cuts while retaining the present ceiling.

Heading the delegation from the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois, were G. Murray Campbell, chairman of the board of trustees; Maurice W. Scott, executive secretary; and J. Herbert Eichelberger, assistant to the president.

Preservation of our economic strength is essential to over-all national security, the delegates said in support of tax cut pleas, pointing out the "precariously" balanced $73.9 billion budget for next year represents the second successive record peace-time budget, and the heaviest Federal tax burden in history. "Cut back civilian and non-essential spending in the department of defense to a level which will guarantee a safely balanced Federal budget and permit tax reduction in this session of Congress," they urged.

John W. Brynes, Congressman from Green Bay, Wis., warned that lifting the debt ceiling from $275 billion to $280 billion was dangerous. He said that the statutory debt limitation serves as a "restraint" on Federal spending.

Herbert J. Miller, Washington, D. C., Executive Director of the Tax Foundation served as a panel discussion leader, and pointed out that few persons realized Federal tax rates are "still very close to, and in some cases even higher" than, the peak rates of World War II.

Unanimously passed were resolutions deploring the recent action taken by the House of Representatives in raising the debt limit by $5 billion, and asking Congress to recognize education as a state-local responsibility. The delegates were strong for essential spending for defense purposes. They were just as strong in the realization that there are no gimmicks to force Congress to economize. Congress just has to say "NO" to some of the non-essential spending proposals.

YESTERDAYS

27 YEARS AGO
Feb. 19, 1931

Has child psychology changed very much? Here is a little philosophy published in 1931.

"You must be a little lady or a little gentleman" was preached in the Colonial days, when Washington was a young blade. And a more Puritan belief was to "spare the rod and spoil the child." Whipping is not looked upon favorably today, but some mothers over-do their leniency. Children should be handled firmly, but in such a manner that their natural confidence is not destroyed.

You have all seen those quaint pictures of children perched upon a stool being forced to eat food which was good for them. Different methods are used today. If, when a child is about 2 or 3 years old, he refuses his food, allow him sufficient time to make up his stubborn little mind to eat it—about half an hour—then, if the food remains on the plate, remove it and serve it, reheated or refreshed.

Sometimes just a plain lack of appetite causes them to petulantly refuse their food. It has been found that if the little child relaxes before a meal, resting or lying quietly while someone reads to him he will eat better.

The Ladies' Aid will hold a thimble bee next Wednesday afternoon, February 25, at 2 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. William W. Runyard.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dalgaard entertained at a birthday party given in honor of the fourteenth birthday of their son, Armand, Sunday afternoon. The party was a complete surprise to Armand, as he was riding with Clayton Bartlett while his friends were gathering at his home. Games and music were enjoyed all afternoon. At 5 o'clock a luncheon was served, after which Mr. Dalgaard took the merry-makers to Reeves Drug Store for ice cream. Those present were Helen Strang, Agnes Christensen, Virginia Tidmarsh, Marie Griffin, Anna Mae Turnock, Stacy Kubs, Elizabeth Hostetter, Clayton Bartlett, Lester Chinn, Billy Duffy, Franklin Crandall, Kenneth Crowley and Arden Van Patten.

Van Patten.

A particularly enjoyable program was arranged for the meeting of the Woman's Club at the grade school Monday afternoon. The girls' glee club, the boys' glee club and the orchestra sang and played several selections. Serving on the committee were Mrs. Charles Lux, Mrs. A. Mapletorpe and Mrs. Elmer Brook.

A group of friends were entertained by Mrs. W. C. Petty last Thursday. Three tables of bridge were played, the honors going to Mrs. Nason Sibley, Mrs. Fred Hawkins and Mrs. E. J. Lutterman.

The World's Most Widely Used
Devotional Guide

The Upper Room

Read Psalm 103: 1-11.

The Lord is merciful and gracious slow to anger, and plenteous in mercy. (Psalm 103: 8.)
"I was in a hospital with a broken leg, and so was the man in the bed next to me. We were both in severe pain. Each of us could be heard saying, 'Lord have mercy on me.' When our pain subsided, we started talking to each other.

The fact that we were both Christians gave us something in common and we became friends. Our prayers changed; we prayed that God would have mercy on both of us. When we became stronger, our prayers were all the men in the ward. This eventually led to our praying for the suffering people all over the world.

Our common suffering and simple faith created a bond of genuine fellowship that became contagious. When we were able to get around in wheel chairs, we went to the bed patients with prayers and Bible reading. These acts of compassion did much toward their recovery. They called us the "wheel-chair preachers," but we were not preachers at all. We were just two people who believed in prayer and the goodness and mercy of God.

Prayer
Our Father, we know how unworthy we are of Thy love and help, of Thy mercy and forgiveness. Yet without Thee we are nothing; by Thy mercy we are blessed. Strengthen us in love and fellowship, through Christ our Saviour. Amen.

Thought for the Day

A Good Student Is Happy and Well-Adjusted

One of the most important developments in public education during the last generation closely parallels an equally important development in medicine, the science of psychosomatics, in the opinion of Earl H. Hanson, Superintendent of the Rock Island, Ill., public schools. "More than 40 per cent of all hospital beds are occupied by patients who are physically ill because they are emotionally upset," Dr. Hanson relates in the current (Feb. 22) issue of The Saturday Evening Post.

"We who are responsible for your children's education now recognize the close connection between success in the classroom and a child's attitude toward learning. With few exceptions, the good student is happy and well-adjusted, the poor student unhappy and maladjusted. Many of us used to believe that the efficacy of any medicine depended upon its unpleasantness. Many of us also used to believe that education, to be effective, had to be equally unpleasant. We now know that a child's education will be good or bad, depending upon his interest in his studies, his liking for his teachers, and the extra satisfaction that he obtains at school.

"Not every child can be a good student, but every child can be a better student if he likes to learn what he is taught."

Dr. Hanson, who is also president of the Illinois Education Association, said he has long been familiar with such complaints as the following: "Our young people have been corrupted by luxury; their manners are bad and they are contemptuous of authority. . . . They no longer rise when their elders enter the room. They contradict their parents, chatter in the presence of guests, wolf their food and tyrannize their teachers."

The educator then relates that the complaint he has quoted was uttered not as you might suppose by a contemporary American, but by an Athenian Greek named Socrates in the fifth century before Christ.

Dr. Hanson's article, "The Middle Way Is the Best Way," written with Leigh White, says that the problem of education in the United States can be reduced to the problem of municipal economics.

"New school buildings are important," he says, "but I would prefer, if forced to make the choice, to staff an antiquated school with a sufficient number of good teachers than to acquire a new school without sufficient funds to provide it with an adequate teaching staff."

Keep Tax Records For Three Years

A reminder to Federal income taxpayers to retain their copies of returns filed during the current tax season was issued today by District Director H. Alan Long of the Chicago office of the Internal Revenue Service. Records of income and expense used in preparation of the return also should be kept, he said.

"Tax forms and records must be preserved for at least three years from the deadline date, April 15, in case any question concerning a return should arise," Mr. Long said.

"Beyond this requirement, however, taxpayers should find that retention of their copies of returns should help them in filing next year, especially if there is little or no change in their financial status. In addition, the Revenue service suggests that records of 1958 expenditures—cancelled checks, receipts, notations of contributions, sales taxes and other levies, interest payments and other deductible items—be retained with the return copy for ready reference in computing 1958 Federal returns."

Mr. Long pointed out that district and local offices of the Revenue Service are glad to provide information throughout the year, preferably by telephone but on a visit to an office if required.

"All we ask is that the taxpayer have the facts and figures relating to his problem correctly in mind," Mr. Long declared.

Predict New Type Family Doctor Will Soon Appear

CHICAGO—Prognostication is in the air with the beginning of the new year!

And from his vantage point as a trustee of the American Medical Association, Dr. Julian P. Price sees a new type of general practitioner emerging within the next 30 years.

Dr. Price, who is 56, the father of three grown children and a practicing pediatrician in Florence, S.C., said the next 30 years will show as many scientific achievements and changes in the way medicine is practiced as the American people and physicians have experienced in the last 30 years.

Dr. Price said: "Medical practice will change. The trend toward specialization will continue, with an increase in group practices in clinics. These clinics will be staffed and equipped to furnish complete care for the ambulatory patient, and a large segment of the population will patronize their services.

"There will still be those, however, who want individual physicians for themselves and their families, and for these a new type of general practitioner will emerge to take the place of the present general practitioner.

"His work will consist of internal medicine, pediatrics and psychiatry, with office procedures in orthopedics, gynecology, and surgery."

Tons of Cure For National Headache

NEWARK—Americans must have plenty of headaches. In a recent year they took a multitude of pain relievers, including over 7,000 tons of aspirin products, more than 100 tablets for every man, woman and child in the country.

While headaches and remedies are plentiful, there is a lack of complete scientific understanding of their causes and effects, according to Dr. Morton J. Rodman, professor of pharmacology at Rutgers University College of Pharmacy here.

The State University pharmacologist explains that doctors know the brain itself is insensitive to pain. They think that most headaches are caused by large arteries and veins on the surface of the skull "pulling" on nerves which carry pain impulses.

"Anything which enlarges, displaces or presses on, these blood vessels tends to stimulate pain-sensitive nerve endings.

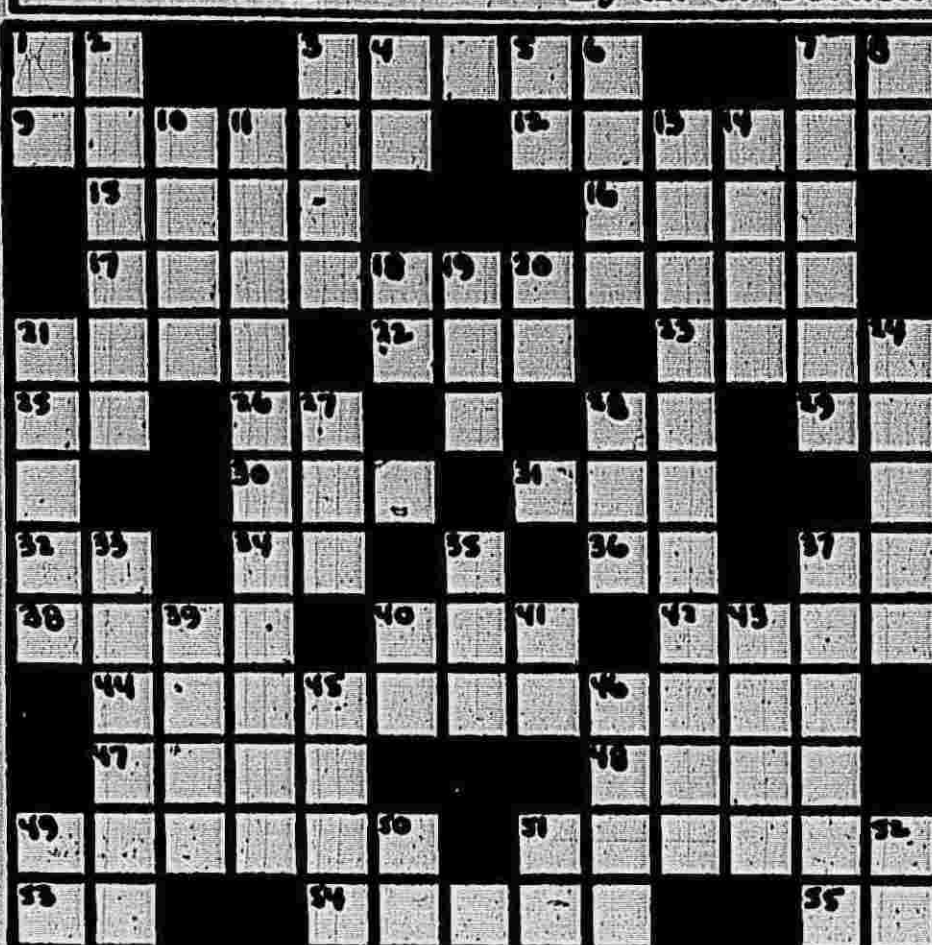

Cuban Curiosities Added To Institute Collection

WASHINGTON—Lizards apparently immune to bullets, bat-crushing snakes, pigmy boa constrictors, frogs that never are polywogs, and frogs less than a third of an inch long are among the curiosities of reptile and amphibian life recently collected in Cuba for the Smithsonian Institution by David Hardy, a graduate student of the University of Maryland.

Most curious of the lot are the "bulletproof" lizards. They are large iguanas, 3 to 4 feet long, with a curious resemblance to antediluvian monsters. Mr. Hardy found them in limestone outcroppings and on sandy islands along the Cuban coast.

"You just can't kill them with bullets," he says. Over and over again he has hit them with a .22 rifle. When shot, he says, they turn over on their backs and lie still, but when approached the apparently dead reptile suddenly "comes to life again," gets on its feet with marvelous speed, and disappears down a hole. About the only way to collect specimens is with a noose.

And, to complete the application of the phrase, Mr. Long asks, please, taxpayers, address your containing envelope carefully and legibly, too, to the District Director of Internal Revenue, 22 West Madison Street, Chicago 2, Illinois.

Your Signature Makes It Legal

"Signed, sealed and delivered." The origin of the phrase may be uncertain, but its meaning is clear, nowhere—in the opinion of District Director H. Alan Long of the Internal Revenue Service—is it more applicable than to the filing of Federal income-tax returns.

The return that is neatly and accurately prepared, attractive as it may be does not become a thing of beauty until the necessary signature (husband and wife, if joint) has been appended, Mr. Long feels. In fact, even if it meets perfectly all the other standards of the tax agency, he still has to send it back if unsigned or incompletely signed. Along with signatures, taxpayers should print their names, as legibly as possible, at the head of the return. The printing is necessary because a good percentage of people do not possess the most readable
